Hyatt Regency Trinidad Gives Back to the Community on National Day of Caring As part of Hyatt Thrive, the hotel's employees participate in community service all year long

Port of Spain, Trinidad – June 1, 2016 – On May 22, Hyatt Regency Trinidad participated in United Way Trinidad & Tobago's National Day of Caring to refurbish Trinidad's Rainbow Rescue home for boys. Employees of the Caribbean's leading business hotel donated their time and resources for two days to repaint the exterior and perimeter fence walls of the home, which houses socially displaced boys from the ages of 11-17.

"In conjunction with Hyatt's global corporate responsibility platform, Hyatt Thrive, our employees take part in community outreach initiatives throughout the year," said General Manager Russell George. "For example, each year, a portion of our LIME fete's proceeds go to a local charity. In the past, LIME's proceeds have supported Rainbow Rescue so we were thrilled to give back to the non-profit home again this year."

As part of Hyatt's Corporate Program Thrive, Hyatt associates around the world, come together in a brand-wide effort to improve the many communities around the world that they call home. Hyatt Regency Trinidad has partnered with United Way Trinidad & Tobago's National Day of Caring since 2009 for what started out as a day of fun and games for all the children's homes under its umbrella, and has since turned into a day of giving back to the community and children by local businesses and corporate organizations. On last year's National Day of Caring, Hyatt Regency Trinidad's employees painted the inside and outside of The Amica House, a home for girls. In the past, the hotel has also refurbished basketball courts, playgrounds and buildings for other local NGOs (non-governmental organizations) including the CottonTree Foundation, an educational center for kids.
